

5 Films Created by Filmmaker Leann Fyvie that make me an Alpha Female

Aqua Punching Bag

This is the commercial ALPHA side of me. I want to start making creative films like this. I don't ever see myself going basic nice clean cut interview style films. I will always make intriguing, captivating, and creative films. I'd like to redo a film like this and find the time to have voiceover and try different locations. Also to add captions and make it more of a story/impactful. I did get paid for this project and this was my first commercial gig. They recently called back for more!

Woman-Owned Tattoo Promo to Prove Them Wrong

This film was made because my inner female ego needed to show a gentleman that I can make badass films. My name was given to contact for a dark and engaging tattoo film and he never called me. He called men filmmakers. So, I found a woman tattoo artist starting her own tattoo boutique and I created this. The night I posted her film, I received a message from the gentleman that never called asking me to film for him and he wanted a film just like the one I made. No one else could do what he wanted done. I had never felt so satisfied. I was new to my glidecam and gear but I went at it full force. I added sound effects and used a dark LUT. I was so proud of this. I had men asking me in different online groups how I did effects, transitions, music, and more.

Adventurous + Unique Wedding Films + Elopements

I found my niche and it's adventurous and unique locations with romantic and adventurous couples. I want to be able to call myself a "boutique wedding filmmaker" and make the most incredible films for each client. This isn't possible when I'm filming the same traditional films every weekend in the same location and same routine.

This teaser film was one I just did in the Adirondack Mountains in Lake Placid. They were loving and fun. It was a wedding I booked from a bridal show ... in fact the ONLY wedding I booked from the show when I was new and wasn't charging much. This short teaser has already booked me another Adirondack mountainside wedding and I received 4 more inquiries from this after being put out only a couple weeks ago. It'd be incredible to find couples who match my style like this. Rebranding could also play a huge roll in my future as a filmmaker.

Here is an example of finding dairy-free vegan options. If you're not vegan/dairy-free for health or other reasons this won't impact you like it is impacting others. But, chances are high that someone in your family or a friend is impacted by this. When you encounter this issue, it's a HUGE life change.

Examples are shared in the narrative attachment to share how important this lacking resource is.

Life Changing Documentary Films

I wanted to tell someone's experience successfully overcoming homelessness. I was persistent when contacting the shelter and said let's do this now or never. They accepted and now want more.

The gentleman overcame addiction + homelessness. His wife was pregnant during the filming + they had their baby a week before the premier of his film. I went to the premier at the gala fundraising event + stood in the back with my husband + baby. I watched around the room while others were watching in awe + crying. Everyone was captivated + no one moved. I held it together but inside I thought I was going to burst. I realized at that moment that THAT was why I do what I do. It moved people + changed at least one person in that room that night. I didn't want any recognition from that I just want to have that feeling that I felt standing there watching audience over + over again. I truly have never felt that emotion before until that moment. This has around 140 shares + 8k organic views on Facebook which was rewarding for my first short film!

Filmmaking career

Wedding Film Company: Fyvie Films

I began in 2015 by applying the "free to fee" rule and now have over 50 weddings since I began my career. I am an adventurous, artistic, and romantic wedding filmmaker. I create my films with emotion and believe 50% of my film is footage and 50% is audio.

Commercial: High Rock Creative

I have recently started a commercial film DBA since I wanted to keep my weddings separate from commercial work. I felt as a woman that this was especially important. Films include tattoo and punching bag promos included in the 5 films that make me an alpha female. Other events and promotional videos have also been created or are currently in the lineup to be edited.
